(b)

The information disclosed in the section titled “Board Leadership Update” in Item 7.01 of this Current Report on Form 8-K is incorporated by reference to this Item 5.02.

Item 7.01. Regulation FD Disclosure

As previously disclosed, on February 19, 2016 the Audit Committee (the “Audit Committee”) of the Board of Directors (the “Board”) of comScore, Inc. (the “Company”) received a message regarding certain potential accounting matters. In response, the Audit Committee immediately commenced an investigation of the matters with the assistance of King & Spalding LLP, as independent counsel to the Audit Committee, and AlixPartners, LLP, as forensic accountants. That investigation is now complete, and the Company is providing the following summary of the findings of the Audit Committee and steps the Company is taking in response to these findings.

Summary of Investigative Findings

As a result of the February 19, 2016 message, the Audit Committee investigated the issues raised by the message and other matters related to the Company’s revenue recognition practices, disclosures, internal controls, corporate culture, and certain employment practices. The Audit Committee’s investigation concluded that, as a result of certain instances of misconduct and errors in accounting determinations, adjustments to the Company’s accounting for certain nonmonetary and monetary transactions were required.

Based on the results of the Audit Committee investigation, and as previously disclosed, the Company cannot support the prior accounting for the nonmonetary transactions recorded by the Company during the years ended December 31, 2013, 2014 and 2015, and accordingly, revenue and expenses associated with all nonmonetary transactions during these periods is being reversed and accounted for at historical cost rather than at fair value. There is no historical cost basis associated with the assets that the Company exchanged and therefore there should be no revenue recognized or expenses incurred for those transactions. While a nonmonetary transaction inherently has no effect on operating income or cash flow over the life of the relevant agreement governing such transaction, the timing of revenue recognized relative to the related expense recognized may have an effect on a periodic basis.

Based on its investigation, the Audit Committee also found that, for the nonmonetary transactions under review, facts collected during the investigation called aspects of the transactions into question, including instances where additional arrangements were entered into and not properly disclosed to the Company’s accounting group and instances where there did not appear to be a clear need for all of the data that was being exchanged. As previously disclosed, the Company does not expect in the future to enter into any nonmonetary transactions that would result in the recognition of revenue.

The Audit Committee also determined that the accounting treatment for certain monetary transactions will need to be adjusted, principally relating to the timing of revenue recognition. One of these transactions involved over-delivery of data that recurred in multiple periods, two others included potential undisclosed additional arrangements that required contemporaneous contracts to be accounted for as a single arrangement, and one related to partially delayed invoicing for delivered data inconsistent with the terms of the contract. The Company is in the process of reviewing the adjustments for these transactions as well as several journal entries identified during the investigation.

The Audit Committee’s investigation also identified concerns regarding internal control deficiencies, including concerns about tone at the top; errors in judgment identified with respect to issues reviewed; information not having been provided to the Company’s accounting group and its external auditors; and the sufficiency of public disclosures made by the Company about certain performance metrics. In addressing these concerns and those noted above, the Audit Committee and the Company are in the process of considering and implementing remedial measures, with a view toward improved accounting and internal control practices. These steps include separating certain Company personnel; enhancing communications to support a robust control environment; strengthening the Company's disclosure controls, including through disclosure committee enhancements; strengthening controls around the Company's revenue recognition practices, including controls related to contract administration and delivery of data; and enhancing the Company's internal audit and compliance functions. The Company is committed to maintaining an effective control environment and making changes needed to enhance effectiveness.

The Company will continue with its improvements to internal controls and will continue to review transactions that were not part of the investigation. As a result of that review, there may be additional accounting adjustments and such adjustments may be material.

As previously disclosed, the Company is working as expeditiously as possible toward filing its restated consolidated financial statements. At this time, however, the Company cannot predict with certainty when the preparation of those prior period restated financial statements, as well as any subsequently required Forms 10-Q and Forms 10-K including the Company's financial statements, will be completed. The Company is committed to addressing the issues identified in the investigation, and to re-establishing timely financial reporting as soon as practicable.

Board Leadership Update

On November 17, 2016, Joan Lewis, the Chair of the Board and a Class III director, and Patricia Gottesman, the Chair of the Board's Nominating and Governance Committee and also a Class III director, delivered their respective resignations to the Board effective immediately. Ms. Gottesman's and Ms. Lewis's respective resignations did not occur in connection with any disagreement with the Company known to an executive officer of the Company on any matter relating to the Company's operations, policies or practices. The Company thanks Ms. Gottesman and Ms. Lewis for their service to the Company, particularly with respect to their role on the Audit Committee and their role co-chairing, through its completion, the investigation by the Audit Committee of certain accounting practices, as further described above.

On November 18, 2016, the Board unanimously appointed William Henderson as Chairman of the Board. Mr. Henderson is an independent director, and has previously served as the Board's lead independent director.
